DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Claims 5-7 and 16-36 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 08-17-2004

Drawings

A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-4 and 8-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kim (US 2001/0019126) in view of Lee (US 2002/0041347).

Art Unit: 2811

Kim discloses a contact structure in a thin-film transistor display device (Fig. 15; also see Paragraphs 0027 and 0028), comprising: a lower conductive film (30; it is naturally dry-etchable as it is formed of Cr) and an upper conductive film (32; formed on the lower film and including Al alloy) in a gate conductive layer formed on a insulating substrate (200), the upper film having edges located on the lower film; an insulator (42) having a contact hole exposing at least a portion of the lower film (at the gate pad portion); and a transparent pixel electrode layer (44, including 44a, 44b and/or 44c) formed on the insulator and contacting the lower film through the contact hole.

Although Kim does not expressly disclose that the transparent pixel electrode layer can be formed of IZO, one of ordinary skill in the art would readily recognize that IZO is a commonly used material for forming a good transparent conductive pixel layer, as evidenced in Lee (see Paragraphs 0011 and 0041).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate the IZO pixel layer into the device of Kim, so that a LCD device with a pixel layer having good transparency, and/or good conductivity, and/or with improved material choice and/or flexibility would be obtained.

Regarding claims 3 and 12, it is noted that at least two sides of the gate pad structure is commonly symmetric in the art, as evidenced readily in the prior art such as Ahn et al. (US 6,338,989; see the gate pad 41 in Fig. 3).

Regarding claims 8-15, the device of Kim further includes: a gate insulating layer (34); a semiconductor layer (36); a data conductive layer (38 and 40); a passivation layer (the insulator 42); and a drain electrode (41b).

Art Unit: 2811

Regarding claim 14, it is noted that the thickness of a refractory metal (Cr) layer in a gate electrode layer such as the one of Kim is an art recognized parameter of importance subject to routine experimentation and optimization, and that the recited thickness of about 500 Angstroms is well within the art commonly recognized range in such a gate electrode layer.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Reference C is cited as being related to a TFT LED structure.
